

Please do not change the rules on the no call list!

We do not need to start creating loopholes for the callers.

You start with the banks who could call previous customers. You then will have every other firm asking to call their previous customers. Pretty soon, the no call list is then worthless.

I think the phrase "previous customers" would imply that the person no longer wished to be a customer. If that person is on the do not call list, they are well aware that they could be missing "valuable offers" from the telemarketers! Please, please, please do NOT allow the rules to be changed!
